RE: School Safety Reminders for the Coming Academic Year.

As you busily plan for the arrival of your faculty, staff and students, we'd like to offer this checklist of suggested training items that you may want to consider adding to your regularly scheduled faculty/staff training sessions prior to the start of the coming school year.

Inform all faculty/staff of your school's access control and visitor management policies/procedures.

Inform all faculty/staff of your school's evacuation locations and routes to these locations.

Inform all faculty/staff of their individual roles and responsibilities during a critical incident at your school.

Inform all faculty/staff of who has the authority to call the school into a lockdown (recommendation – all faculty/staff should have the authority /obligation to call the school into a lockdown if they feel that action is warranted).

Inform all faculty/staff what their roles and responsibilities are if your school is called into (Lockdown, Lockout, Shelter in Place or Evacuate) (<https://iloveguys.org/srp.html> )

Inform all faculty/staff of your school's behavioral threat assessment process and how to report concerning behaviors that may have a negative impact on your school.

Inform all faculty/staff of how school leaders will communicate with them during an emergency at your school.

Train all appropriate staff members in First Aid/CPR and in the use of an AED (Automated External Defibrillator), if appropriate.

Consider informing parents of your school safety initiatives and how you intend to communicate with them before, during, and after a critical incident at your school.

Remind faculty/staff of the mental health resources available to them and how they can access these resources after experiencing a critical incident at your school.

Reinforce the importance of the See Something/Say Something campaign.

Invite your local emergency first response organizations to observe or participate in an upcoming school safety drill or exercise.
